DID YOU KNOW?

James B. Hovey founded the City of Spring Hill in 1857—before Kansas was even a state. Little did he know, our founding year would someday nod to 15 and 87, two legends of a team we love to cheer for.

SHPD earns national recognition—twice

The Spring Hill Police Department is celebrating two prestigious national awards in 2024 that highlight its dedication to community engagement:

- Best Facebook Presence – Government Social Media
- Outstanding Participation – National Night Out

These accomplishments showcase the department's ability to build trust, connect with residents, and share vital information.

With such strong momentum, Spring Hill is eager to find a Police Chief candidate who can build on this foundation.

“The outgoing Chief, Cindy Henson, and current staff have established a legacy of strong community relationships, and we couldn’t be prouder of what they’ve accomplished,” says City Administrator, Lane Massey. “The next chief will have the privilege of leading a department that’s already thriving and help shape its future.”

BEST FACEBOOK PRESENCE

SHPD earned the “Best Facebook Presence” Golden Post Award from the Government Social Media (GSM) association, standing out among agencies nationwide. Despite being one of the smallest nominees, SHPD impressed with its ability to connect with residents. “The goal is never to ‘go viral,’” says Captain Adam Khan, Interim Chief. “It’s about sharing messages that resonate and benefit our community.”

Each of the 18 SHPD team members contribute by sharing ideas or participating in posts. The city’s Public Affairs Specialist, Kristen Boxman, collaborates with the department to craft social media posts. This ensures the message remains genuine without compromising officers’ duties.

From light-hearted posts to life-saving alerts, social media has been a powerful tool for SHPD. A Silver Alert shared via Facebook reached 80,000 people and helped locate a missing resident within hours. Community initiatives, like the Blue Elves project, also rely on this platform to make a meaningful impact.

OUTSTANDING PARTICIPATION: NATIONAL NIGHT OUT

SHPD was also honored with the 2024 National Award for Outstanding Participation in ‘America’s Night Out Against Crime,’ recognizing their leadership in National Night Out events. Nine neighborhoods participated, fostering connections between officers and residents. A tip shared during these events recently helped solve a burglary case and recover stolen property. Community Liaison Officers Jeremy Johnson and Madyson McGill led these efforts, earning SHPD recognition as the only city in Kansas to receive this award.

The winning game plan against winter storms

Spring Hill's Public Works crews remained on the front lines, tackling January's historic winter storm head-on.

Preparations began a day before the storm, with crews pretreating roads to slow ice and snow accumulation. When precipitation arrived, about one half-inch of ice coated the streets, followed by 10 inches of snow. With temperatures dropping below 20 degrees, salt became less effective at melting snow and ice, but crews remained consistent in their efforts to clear the roads.

"Winter storms like this one are a test for any city, but with the commitment of our Public Works team and the cooperation of our residents, we were able to navigate the challenges successfully," said Public Works Director Jacob Speer.

In addition to clearing streets, crews maintained sidewalks and parking lots at City facilities, including police and fire stations, ensuring access for essential workers and emergency vehicles. They also kept trucks running by refilling salt spreaders and performing maintenance to keep up with 24-hour operations.

"Every storm teaches us something new," Speer added. "We're already reviewing this storm's challenges to improve and continue delivering the best possible service."

Public Works extends its gratitude to residents for their patience and support during the storm.
